*"When there was in the beginning no world,
Then there was neither heaven nor earth.
Everywhere was a blue sea,
And on the midst of the sea, a green plane-trees
On the plane tree three doves,
Three doves take counsel,
Take counsel as how to create the world.
"Let us plunge to the bottom of the sea.
Let us gather fine sand;
Let us scatter fine sand,
That it may become for us black earth.
Let us get golden rocks;
Let us scatter golden rocks.
Let there be for us a bright sky,
A bright sky, a shining sun,
A shining sun and bright moon,
A bright moon, a bright morning star,
A bright morning star and little starlets."*

Shoots taken on the way,
always looking for the beauty of Mother Nature taking (back) her places and teaching us something ancient and wiser than us.

Vis-à-vis
2013

A SUPSI Cross-media
Lab project by Sara Bellicina and Miriam Genchev (me).

An interactive installation for the Benjamin Britten's The Rape of Lucretia, performed in Lugano.

Stepping on the LED-lighted pressure mats, people can meet the characters of the opera, giving them life.
